CUNARD LINER TORPEDOED OFF IRISH COAST TODAY

GIANT STEAMER CARRYING MORE THAN 1,200 PERSONS STRUCK AND SENT TO BOTTOM BY GERMAN SUBMARINE.

BELIEVED THAT ALL PASSENGERS ARE SAVED

Slow Sinking of Vessel Gives Opportunity to Send Out Wireless Calls For Aid Which Bring A Score of Crafts From Nearby Ports.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] New York, May 7.—The Dow and Jones company ticker service from London declared the Lusitania was beached and passengers and crew, according to Lloyd's, were saved.

Passengers Safe. London, May 7.—It is believed that the Lusitania's passengers were saved. No details of how they may have been rescued, however, are at hand. One message says:

"It is not known how many of the Lusitania's passengers were saved." Relief was immediately sent out from Queenstown. If she floated a reasonable length of time, before going down it is possible some of the rescue ships got to her side. It is believed the Lusitania's water-tight bulkhead helped to keep her afloat.

New York, May 7.—The Cunard liner Lusitania, one of the fastest ships afloat, was torpedoed and sunk this afternoon off the coast of Ireland, ten miles south of Kinsale.

She had aboard 1,253 passengers. She sailed from this port last Saturday, May 1, and carried in addition to her own large passenger list 163 passengers transferred to her from the Anchor liner Cameronia. The news of her sinking was announced by the local office of the Cunard line and was based on cable advice received from the home office of the company in Liverpool. The dispatches received in the order named, were made public by the line, and read as follows:

"We received from Lands End news wireless station news of repeated distress calls from the Lusitania asking for assistance at once. Big list. Position ten miles southeast of Kinsale. Subsequently received telegrams from Queenstown that all available craft in the harbor had been dispatched to assist."

The second message to the local office read:

Boats Rush to Aid. "Queenstown, 4:55 p. m.—About twenty boats of all sorts belonging to our line are in the vicinity where the Lusitania sank. About fifteen other boats are making for the spot to render assistance."

The third cable sent from Liverpool read:

"Following received by admiralty: Galley Hold, 4:25 p. m.—Several boats, apparently survivors, southeast ten miles. Greek steamer proceeded to assist."

Dispatches received here from London, Liverpool and Queenstown confirmed the news. One of the messages said it was believed all the big liner's passengers had been saved.

"Definite news, however, as to the fate of the passengers had been received by Cunard line here early this afternoon."

The third line announced it would be public as fast as believed. The dispatches on the sinking of the Lusitania, including those relating to the fate of the passengers.

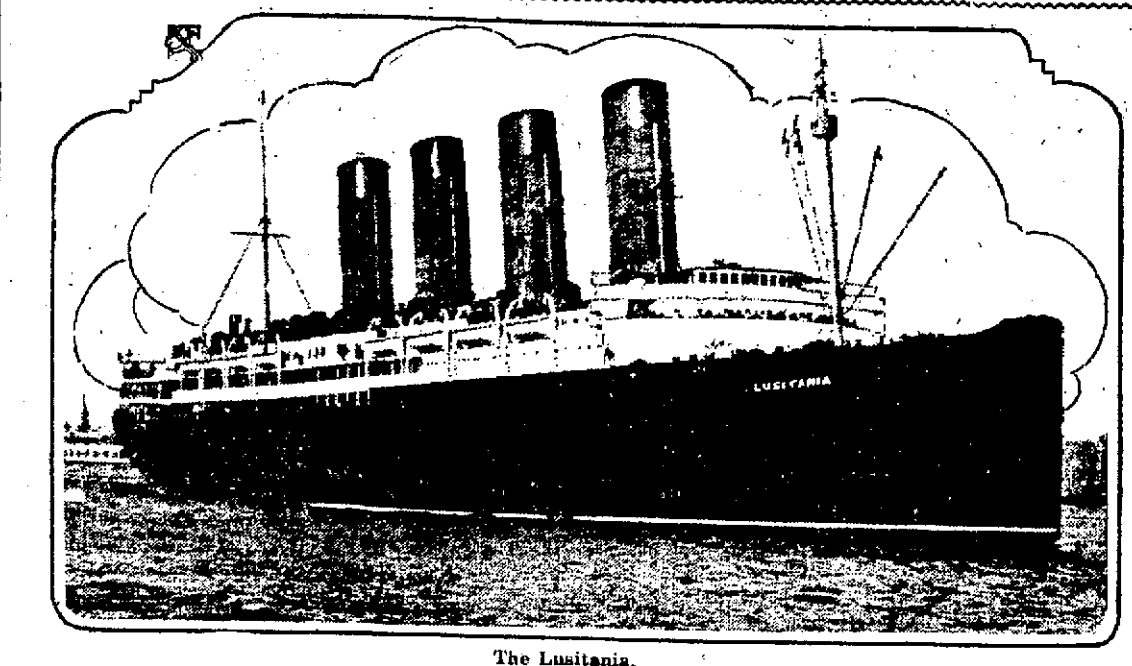

The stock market was stunned by the news. A torrent of selling orders poured in from every section of the country. A period of extreme excitement followed.

Prices in war specialties fell 15 to 20 points. A cable from London dropped 5 to 10 points.

Removed Passengers. If the reports are true that the Lusitania was torpedoed at two o'clock this morning and she did not sink until half past two, it is a record. A period of time which undoubtedly gave opportunity for the removal of passengers. It is not known just how far from shore she was when struck.

A dispatch from London sets forth the assistance was sent to her. The dispatches preceded reads:

Liverpool, May 7.—Land and wireless reports. Distress calls made as follows:

The Lusitania.

DUTCH UNDER ARMS TO PREVENT ENTRY OF FOREIGN ARMIES

Holland Soldiers Patrol Border and Promise Trouble to First Army That Violates Neutrality.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Bergen-op-Zoom, Netherlands, May 7.—Dutch soldiers under arms stand at intervals along the Dutch-Belgian frontier near here, keeping watch of the movements of the Germans in devastated Belgium, for Holland is determined she will not permit without fighting the entry of foreign troops from whatever side they may come.

The Dutchmen, themselves not at war, live through at least some of the excitement of actual fighting, for in the stillness reigning over the peaceful agricultural districts about here they can hear from time to time the roar of cannon from the direction of Zebrugges. Also they are often witnesses of the chase by German troops of our Belgian marksmen.

The German sentries just over the river separating the two countries never cease their vigilant lookout for these young fellows and the precautions they have taken to prevent them crossing the line are very strict. Bushes have been cut down and obstacles in the way of a clear view of the landscape have been removed. The ground around harbored wire entanglements have been erected to a depth of many yards.

Yet the young Belgians dare everything. They crawl beneath the wire at night and with luck manage in many cases to get through at the expense of torn clothing and flesh. Then, however, there is the open space before the frontier to negotiate.

The German sentries, however, are not to be taken in. They are armed with machine guns and are ready to open fire at once if they see a German soldier in the act of crossing the frontier.

Numbers of them succeed, for the Germans make good care not to fire in the direction of the frontier, as they would thus run the risk of shooting the Dutch sentinels on the other side of the line and in this way committing a breach of neutrality.

Once the Dutch sentries are alerted, the Belgians youths are free. As they are not yet soldiers, they cannot be interned and most of them make their way to a port for shipment across the Channel.

The Dutch troops on other portions of the frontier have also to keep a sharp lookout for smugglers of contraband from their own territory into Germany. These smugglers, owing to the high prices of goods in Germany, are very daring and tricky, and they do not hesitate to use violence against their own countrymen.

Sound horses of any age fetch extraordinary high prices from the Germans, anything up to $500 being paid for draft horses.

All roads leading to the frontiers are closed to traffic. Directly on the border line at wide intervals stand the sentries with their loaded rifles resting beneath their arms. About 200 yards further back is a second line of sentinels and behind these some distance in the rear are pickets of a dozen men with a non-commissioned officer.

The smugglers naturally keep to side paths or go across country. In case they should be seen by the pickets the chase is a lively one and their loads confiscated. Often, however, at night they succeed in passing through the gaps between the pickets. Then their progress becomes difficult and their presence is often discovered by the inner line of sentries who fire if the smugglers, as sometimes happens, make a dash to reach the German lines. Occasionally the chase is a lively one and gives rise to a rapid fusillade which in many cases proves fatal to the smugglers.

Postmaster Cunningham Receives Janesville Mail Today From Davenport, Where Bags Were Taken April 22.

Postmaster Fred B. Shorn at Davenport, Iowa, has sent Postmaster J. Cunningham of this city, mail of all descriptions that was at one time mailed to Janesville people, or sent from Janesville people to points out of the city.

A letter accompanying the mail states that on the 22d of last month several mail pouches were stolen from the C. M. and St. Paul passenger station at Davenport. The bags were found early this week and the stolen mail assorted. Janesville carriers will return the lost mail to whom it is addressed and also to the writers of any letters that might be in the lot.

STRATAGEM EFFECTIVE

Landing of French Troops on Asiatic Side of Dardanelles, Distracts From Main Operations at Gallipoli.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Peking, May 7.—There is good reason to believe that China is prepared to accept a number of foreign residents as well as Chinese themselves are today packing their belongings and otherwise preparing for eventualities.

It was ascertained here today that the Japanese government yesterday presented to the Chinese minister at Tokio, a note warning him that China must accept the demands of Japan or otherwise there would be present to her an ultimatum, the expiration of which would be fixed at 5 p. m. on Sunday, May 9th.

Japan Demands Modified. Tokio, May 6.—Baron Kato, Japanese foreign minister, is understood to have informed the ambassadors of other powers, that the ultimatum to China which expires at 5 p. m. Sunday, May 9th, is undergoing modification of Japan's demands, notably the questions relating to munitions and advisors which interested the United States.

It is the general opinion in diplomatic circles tonight that China will submit. Meanwhile Japan is making extensive preparations for possible future wars and transports are being held in readiness for instant action. The impression prevails that influence of the elder statesmen resulted in further concessions being made to China.

Present Ultimatum. Eki Hiocki, the Japanese minister to China, went to the Chinese foreign office between three and four o'clock this afternoon and presented the Japanese ultimatum. He stated that China accepted the demands presented by the Tokio government.

Previous to this action on the part of the minister, the secretary of the legation visited the foreign office and informed Vice Minister Taso Tulin that the ultimatum of the Japanese government contained certain modifications of the twenty-four demands presented by the Tokio government.

United States' Position. Washington, May 7.—The Japanese-Chinese negotiations following reports that Japan had decided to send an ultimatum to China, held interest here today second only to the European war. The position of the American government regarding the negotiations is set forth in a statement issued by Secretary Bryan following a consultation of President Wilson. The pronouncement says that Japan has promised the United States that she would not violate American treaty rights with China nor interfere with the "open door" policy to which the United States and other powers are committed.

Brief French Statement. Paris, this afternoon gave out the following statement on the progress of hostilities:

The Germans delivered an attack yesterday at close of day at Bagatelle in the Argonne. It resulted in complete failure.

On the remainder of the front, particularly at Ypres and the region of Ypres, there have been violent artillery engagements.

NORTHERN LUMBER CAMPS ARE CLOSED FOR YEAR.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Grandview, Wis., May 7.—The logging camps of the Willow River Lumber company have been closed for the year. The season's cut amounted to about 15,000,000 of hardwood and hemlock logs. A portion of this will go to Hayward, the manufacturer in lumber in the company's own sawmill. Much of it will be converted into paper at Eau Claire.

EXODUS OF GERMANS STARTS FROM ROME; WARNED BY VATICAN

German Theological Students and Ecclesiastics Advised to Quit Italian Capital at Once.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Rome, via Paris, May 7.—Upon receipt of a dispatch from Berlin, the German school in this city suddenly was closed yesterday afternoon. The teachers, with a number of German newspaper correspondents, and several German families, left almost immediately for Germany.

No Special Envoy. Rome, via Paris, May 7.—The Austrian embassy has issued a statement that Baron Goluchowski has been entrusted by the Vienna government with a special mission to Rome. The mission is to deliver a message to the Italian government and to announce that forty passenger trains on the principal lines have been abandoned because of difficulty in obtaining coal.

Four Men Are Held FOR BRUTAL MURDER

Chicago Police Abandon Robbery Theory As Motive for Slaying Mother and Child.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Chicago, May 7.—Four men were held by the police today on suspicion of having contributed to the murder yesterday of Mrs. John L. Copper, wife of a commission broker, and two year old son, whose heads were crushed by blows from a hammer and throat cut.

Police Seek Maniac. Detectives abandoned the theory that robbery was the motive of the crime, as a diamond ring, some currency and a watch valued at $800 were left untouched in the home. They believe that the slayer is a maniac, who, falling in attempts to attack Mrs. Copper, killed her.

Routine duties of the Chicago detective force were ignored today while every energy was bent to find the murderer of Mrs. Ella Copper, mother and her two year old son, John Junior. The police believe the crime which was perpetrated yesterday was the work of a maniac or degenerate.

Mother and child were attacked in their home, their heads crushed with a hammer and throats slashed with a butcher knife.

Ten suspects were rounded up overnight, but the police have no definite evidence against any of them. The clues in the case consist principally of the hammer and knife, newly sharpened, which the murderer left behind him. The fact that the murderer was wearing a white shirt and trousers, his purse had not been taken, and the police theory that he was a degenerate.

Arrest Suspect a Telkhar. Chief of Police and Detective Herman, personally are directed to the work of the detectives, one of whom was sent to Elkhart, Indiana, to bring back a man arrested there. This man was identified as John Gordon, Chicago. A report from Elkhart said that suspects hands were scratched and what looked like bloodstains were found on his clothing. Among the detectives working on the case is James F. Carlin, a brother-in-law of the slain woman. Mrs. Copper, the wife of a commission merchant.

Not even beverages containing a slight proportion of alcohol will be permitted.

DECIDES GHENT NATIVE WAS BELGIAN CITIZEN.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Amsterdam, May 7.—In the trial of Henri Dubois, a Belgian, before the Vienna Landesgericht on charges of fraud, the question was asked whether the accused, as a native of Ghent, should be considered as a German or a Belgian subject. The court ruled that despite the German occupation of Belgium the accused had not lost his Belgian citizenship.

RUSSIANS OVERCOME LARGE TURK FORCE; REPORT ATROCITIES

Defeat Superior Army in Vicinity of Tiflis—Armenians Subjected to Cruelties of Kurds.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Tiflis, via Petrograd, May 7.—It has been officially established in Tiflis that the Turkish forces, who under the command of Thal Bey, recently occupied Filman, numbered 18,000. This shows that their numerical strength was greater than that of the Russians, and even in the final battle the Turks outnumbered their antagonists. The trophies taken by the Russians were a complete hospital outfit, and enormous quantities of stores. It is not yet known how many prisoners were taken. The Turkish commander and members of his staff had a narrow escape from capture.

Six Armenians Slain. Reports received by Armenians residing in Tiflis relate the murder of a member of the Turkish parliament from Van, an Armenian named Wraman. A celebrated political worker named Ishkan and four companions lost their lives with Wraman. The six men, at the time they were killed, were on their way to Shabul to aid in the defense of that place against the Kurds.

This Armenian city in Asiatic Turkey was bombarded by 800 Turkish regular troops who had with them pieces of artillery. Armenians numbering 800 assembled in Saragunis to oppose the murderous bands of Kurds who were bent on the extermination of Armenians was wiped out with the exception of eight men, who found shelter in the monastery of St. Tathvas.

Reports Kurd Atrocities. An agent of the Armenian aid committee after a horseback ride from Van, to Dersis, has reported that this region is fully occupied by Kurds and that six thousand of 25,000 refugees returned to their homes. He said that 850 Armenian women are known to have been sold into slavery by the Kurds, but the number is believed to be much greater. It is reported a total of 5,000 Christians have been killed. Some estimates place the total at as high as 10,000.

Make Extravagant Claims. Constantinople, via wireless to Berlin and London, May 7.—The following statement regarding operations in the Dardanelles was issued last night by the Turkish war office:

"An enemy battalion was annihilated Wednesday as the result of an attack by our troops against his left wing."

Aribauru part of the enemy's strongly built entrenchments were captured. At Seddul Bahr we inflicted heavy losses on the English and captured great quantities of ammunition. We have taken ten enemy machine guns."

Set Town on Fire. Dardanelles, May 6, via London. May 7.—The artillery exchanges between the warships of the allies and the shore positions of the Turks continue. Some vessels are firing from the Gulf of Saros, making use of incendiary shells. The town of Maldo was set on fire yesterday.

Allies Work Russia. Paris, May 7.—The official navy gazette gives an account today of the landing of French troops on Asiatic side of the Dardanelles, which confirms previous reports that the purpose of this enterprise was to make a diversion while the main landing force was going ashore on the Gallipoli Peninsula.

One battery of three-inch guns departed at Kum Kalesi, on the Asiatic side near the entrance to the Dardanelles. The French troops were sent there where they attacked a strongly fortified position. Fighting continued on April 25 to April 27.

The report says the French took 500 prisoners, then retired to their ships, having fulfilled their mission of engaging the attention of the Turks while the main landing operations were being carried out in force on the European shore.

Seek Powers' Attitude. Washington, May 7.—The United States within the last twenty-four hours, through its ambassadors abroad, has consulted Great Britain, France and Russia as allies of Japan to learn their attitude toward the present status of the Japanese-Chinese negotiations.

HEAVY DEATH TOLL AND PROPERTY LOSS IN SOUTHERN STORM

Twenty-one Killed and Many Hurt in Winds Sweeping Portions of Louisiana and Mississippi.

New Orleans, May 7.—The death toll of the wind storms which devastated Acadia Parish, in southwestern Louisiana, and Coahoma county, in northern Mississippi, yesterday and today, stood at twenty-one, all but one were negroes. Fifteen were killed at Egan and Mermentau, in Acadia Parish, and six near Clarksdale and Jonestown, Mississippi.

Forty-five more persons are known to have been injured in Acadia Parish, some of them seriously. Early estimates place the property loss there at $500,000. Many buildings were demolished. Mermentau, twenty houses were destroyed and the state was inundated.

Reports from the Jackson district were delayed today by damage to telegraph and telephone lines. Fronts as Far as Texas. Kansas City, May 7.—All of Nebraska except the extreme eastern portion, Colorado, north central and western Kansas and Texas experienced fronts last night, according to local weather bureau reports.

Jap Minister at Peking Presents Document to State Authorities.—United States Asks Attitude of Powers.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Paris, May 7.—The first attack of the war on Constantinople is reported in an unofficial dispatch from Athens. It is said that three Russian aviators flew over the city dropping several bombs, which are believed to have caused extensive damage. The message says also that the Russian Black sea fleet bombarded the Turkish forts on the left bank of the Bosphorus on Wednesday. Several Russian shells fell within about ten miles of Constantinople.

POLICE MAKE RAID ON VAGRANTS' HOME

Police Raid Congregating Place of Vagrants at Stock Yards Last Evening.

It was supper time at the Stock Yards Café when the police raided the place, but it is situated in a deep hollow of ground near the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul stock yards, on North Bluff street. Here the vagrants congregated in their visits to Janesville. It is not an unusual occurrence to have between twenty or thirty of the hobo clan making the Stock Yards Café their headquarters during their short visit to Janesville. Here is the complete equipment for the making of the toothsome "muligan," or the cooking of a purloined ham, never over a foot long, and the side lights neglected. When the day's roster is full, the hobos divide up and each one is obligated to provide an article of food for the mutual meal. The kind and sympathetic housewife who listens to the fluent tale of woe, parts with a little sugar, or coffee, or bread, and this goes into the "hobunkum" food chamber.

At dinner time they congregated with the spoils of their artful beggery and cook their meals. One would be surprised with the excellent food they manage to obtain.

Last night, however, things were different. About five o'clock six of the men were preparing supper at their ease, waiting for the others to return with the fruits of their beggery game or the results of a nefarious visit to a neighboring hen roost. "Indiana Red," a strapping vagrant, was just in the act of taking his first wash in the iron pot. Near the side lights neglected. Find Mrs. Isaacson of Unsound Mental Condition—Cunningham Asks Retrial Before Grimm.

The jury in the county court which heard the evidence in the examination into the sanity of Mrs. Martha Isaacson returned a verdict yesterday afternoon after an hour's deliberation to the effect that she was of unsound mental condition. J. J. Cunningham, Isaacson's attorney, at once moved for a new trial which was denied by Judge Efffeld. Mr. Cunningham has now petitioned for a retrial before Judge Grimm in the circuit court on the grounds that the evidence gives nothing of a conclusive nature which would indicate the woman to be insane. The case will be taken up before Judge Grimm as soon as a hearing date can be arranged. In the meantime Mrs. Isaacson is in the custody of the county authorities.

BELOIT SPRINGS NEW METHOD OF MAKING DUCKS LAY EGGS.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Beloit, Wis., May 7.—There have been some stories regarding the best way to make ducks lay. Artificial daylight is the favorite. But Mrs. G. W. Smith, who lives near Beloit, comes forward with a brand new one. Her method is simple. Let a dog bite 'em.

A duck is the heroine of Mrs. Smith's story. A dog chased a young duck about the yard and finally bit him to her coop and promptly laid an egg. Then she went outside and laid another.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., May 7.—The village of Lodi, near here, has a woman who sleeps for 48 hours. She is Miss Letta McChaine, employed at the Travelers

Home hotel. She is apparently in no real need of sleep for her health. Her parents, living on a farm in the town of Dane, have gone to Lodi to be with their daughter, for whom they have become much concerned.

MAKES AN INQUIRY ABOUT JITNEY LINE

In Case Automobiles Were Used for Service, City Would Pass License and Restrictive Legislation.

Janesville may have a "jitney" line.

Recently a Janesville garage owner held a discussion with Mayor Jaa. There on what action the city would take if an automobile jitney line was established, and if a license would be necessary. The plans were to operate three or four cars, making stops at the main business district and places where there is no street car service.

The city commission held that a license should be necessary for the regulation of such a line, and that it would be passed restricting certain rules that would be necessary for protection to the people. No application has been made for such a license as yet, but it is understood the cars will be put into operation this summer.

K. OF C. TO MONROE IN SPECIAL TRAIN

Local Council and Those of Nearby Cities Will Attend Initiatory Ceremonies Sunday.

Thursday's Market.

Chicago, April 7.—The hog market closed top heavy yesterday, with the average price 10c lower. Best light weight early at $7.75.

Armour's heavy averaging 290 lbs., cost $7.25, or 31c lower than high day of this month and lowest since middle of April.

After a steady start cattle trade yesterday closed weak to 10c below best time Wednesday, with few beaves below $7.75.

There was a gain of 15@30c in lamb values yesterday, with no wooled Mexicans on sale. Best shorn sold at $9.25.

Average price of hogs at Chicago was $7.42, against $7.52 Wednesday, $6.83 a week ago, $6.85 a month ago, $6.89 a year ago and $6.33 two years ago.

Late Hog Market Flat.

Shippers and speculators opened the hog market steady to 5c lower than Wednesday and packers made a 10@15c lower finish compared with average that day. Trade looks topheavy and more breakers are seemingly ahead. Packers discriminated against heavy hogs in larger supply.

Lubricating Troubles—and their cure!

The Standard Oil Company is making a motor oil that has done away with all common lubricating troubles.

Seven years ago their experts placed this new but tested oil on the market. 1,100 gallons were sold the first year. Then motorists found it out.

1909's demand was for 335,000 gallons—1910's was for 1,118,400. In 1914 nearly 7,000,000 gallons were used in the Middle West alone.

Polarine has gained in sales an average of a million gallons yearly simply because its use eliminated the annoyance and delays incident to unsuitable lubricating oils. Hundreds of thousands of good cars have been saved from the scrap heap by its use. Use it in your motor. See what it does.

Polarine maintains the correct lubricating body at every motor speed and temperature.

It is produced by experts, with the help of perfect facilities, in the largest plant of its kind in the world.

THE JITNEY BUS.
That the jitney bus is a bad doomed to short life is apparent from the experience of many cities, where the system has been installed. Accidents are of daily occurrence, with nobody responsible for damage. The following is a fair sample:
"Panic reigned among about twenty passengers in a jitney at Baltimore recently when the vehicle caught fire and was destroyed. Most of the occupants were returning from trips into the country via the jitney. The passengers, and while waiting for the bus to start, suddenly heard an explosion, and the next instant found themselves enveloped in flames.
"Five persons were painfully burned, one man, who broke a window with his fist, had an artery in his wrist cut, and others suffered sprained backs and shoulders in the scramble to escape.
"On the same day another jitney accident occurred, which brought forth the following comment from the Baltimore News:
"There occurred yesterday two jitney bus accidents, in one of which five people were more or less badly injured, while in the second sixteen passengers narrowly escaped.
"The cause of the explosion of gasoline in the Relay bus, which was badly fixed. It may or may not have been the fault of the chauffeur. The other machine skidded into a ditch, again with some doubt as to the chauffeur's responsibility. The two cases may be treated as single accidents, one of which will be the subject of investigation and the other dropped; but they raise together the one as much as the other—the much more serious question as to what security shall be given the public against financial irresponsibility of jitney bus owners in general.
"The trolley company has a treasury which can be assailed. Relatively to its total number of passengers carried in a day, no single accident would be catastrophic in character. But the jitney bus owner, whose chief capital may consist of only two or three cheap automobiles, is not in position to pay out damages in thousands of dollars.
"Sixteen people were in the Relay bus. Let us assume that they had all been killed or severely injured and the company clearly responsible for the accident. In such a case $4,000 damages per person might not be excessive—a total of $64,000. The United States could pay out such a sum without embarrassment. How many jitney bus owners could do so? Or how many jitney bus owners would protect themselves in any such amount by insurance, unless they were compelled to do so by the city?
"The question is not now being raised for the first time. Cities in which an extensive jitney service has been established are handling it and find themselves embarrassed for a remedy.
"The average street railway company in the inland city is not a money-maker, and their cars are so seldom crowded that the public has no occasion for complaint along this line. Jitney competition cuts down their income and retards extensions and betterments. About the only redeeming feature is the outlet for second-hand machines which the jitney demand has created.
"A GOOD SHOWING.
A canvass of the banks of Los Angeles, California, shows that 40,000 children under sixteen years of age have almost $1,000,000 in savings deposits, an average of $25 each. One bank has 15,000 depositors between the ages of two and fourteen years. The largest account is that of a twelve-year-old boy who has $1,672. He began seven years ago with fifty cents. Savings banks are a great blessing, especially to the plain people with moderate incomes. Many of the children of all parts of the country have deposits in these savings institutions. Children should be taught the value of saving money, and of the earning power of money through interest.
"That's a good showing for the California city and it is gratifying to know that the savings habit is being encouraged, in all parts of the country. In many places the schools are organized and the teachers collect the pennies for a savings bank account.
"It is an old saying that the first thousand dollars is the most difficult to accumulate, and that when secured early in life, it means the foundation of fortune. The statement is true for the dollars taken care of themselves, if the pennies are saved.
"The young man with a thousand dollars of his own, commences life with infinitely better chances for success than the boy who never has a dollar at the end of the week. Capital influences capital, and the reason why so many young men fail in efforts to secure financial backing, is because they are money-spenders, rather than money-savers.

The banks of the city are doing more than ever before to encourage small savings. The campaign they are conducting is educational and effective. It is the best financial policy ever adopted and not only the banks but the coming generation will profit by it.
When we become a nation of savers, like France, then, and not until then, will we enjoy as a people the full measure of independence to which we are entitled. Every sovereign is entitled to a bank account, and we are a nation of sovereigns.

A THIRTY-ONE TELEPHONE COMPANY.
The railroad commission of Wisconsin has received a complaint which is probably the most unique ever received by a commission. The complaint was filed by a farmer in northern Wisconsin, setting forth his grievances against the local telephone company, as follows:
"Dear Sir:—The Telephone company is one old long drunken Norwegian. He spends his money getting drunk. He is drunk every day if he can get it. His poles are rotten and fall down. He makes the excuse that the storm blows his line down. I told him that I would give you a description of the Telephone company.
"It is a Norwegian thing about six feet, inch long; stay around the saloons of Norway. He mostly gets drunk every day and stays drunk and saucy. He bullies every one of his patrons. He gets hell from me. My wife is a patron. Often it is three or four days you hear nothing. The last time about one week ago he submit his bill. I wrote on the bill that when he put the line in repair he get his pay. He has not been around since. He record the bill from some where, taking mud baths. It seems that there is a place where they bury up drunks in the mud and leave them for a week. That draws the whiskey out and they return again for a new drunk. I pretty near forgot to tell you that the Telephone company's name is —————. Exchange.
For plain and unadulterated barbarism, modern warfare as now carried on in the old world, beats anything on record that I have seen. The killing innocent people. Floating mines and submerged destroyers, dealing death and destruction, and to cap the climax, the deadly fumes, which smoke men from the trenches to be slaughtered like rats. Civilization may have reached a high plane, but it has fallen to the slums of the dark ages, and the thirst for blood has no parallel in history.

WHEN SUN "DRAWS WATER"
Some Erroneous Ideas That Seem to Have Taken a Firm Hold on the People's Imagination.
When the sun is to the east or west of us on a cloudy or hazy day, beams are often seen radiating from it toward the horizon; then many people say the sun is "drawing water." They actually believe that the lines of light and shadow appearing to converge in the sun are great shafts of water and the vapor that the sun is drawing up into the air to be precipitated later on the earth as rain or snow. These shafts as a matter of fact are generally indicative of coming rainy weather, but they cannot be counted on as infallible signs.
The idea that the sun is "drawing water," however, is entirely erroneous, for the lines seen are the result of the passage of light through openings in clouds already formed. The lines that appear dark are shadows of clouds while the light lines are rays from the sun made visible in the air by the presence therein of dust or watery vapor, just as the dust in the air of a room makes visible the light that enters it through small apertures.

The two cases may be treated as single accidents, one of which will be the subject of investigation and the other dropped; but they raise together the one as much as the other—the much more serious question as to what security shall be given the public against financial irresponsibility of jitney bus owners in general.
"The trolley company has a treasury which can be assailed. Relatively to its total number of passengers carried in a day, no single accident would be catastrophic in character. But the jitney bus owner, whose chief capital may consist of only two or three cheap automobiles, is not in position to pay out damages in thousands of dollars.
"Sixteen people were in the Relay bus. Let us assume that they had all been killed or severely injured and the company clearly responsible for the accident. In such a case $4,000 damages per person might not be excessive—a total of $64,000. The United States could pay out such a sum without embarrassment. How many jitney bus owners could do so? Or how many jitney bus owners would protect themselves in any such amount by insurance, unless they were compelled to do so by the city?
"The question is not now being raised for the first time. Cities in which an extensive jitney service has been established are handling it and find themselves embarrassed for a remedy.
"The average street railway company in the inland city is not a money-maker, and their cars are so seldom crowded that the public has no occasion for complaint along this line. Jitney competition cuts down their income and retards extensions and betterments. About the only redeeming feature is the outlet for second-hand machines which the jitney demand has created.
"A GOOD SHOWING.
A canvass of the banks of Los Angeles, California, shows that 40,000 children under sixteen years of age have almost $1,000,000 in savings deposits, an average of $25 each. One bank has 15,000 depositors between the ages of two and fourteen years. The largest account is that of a twelve-year-old boy who has $1,672. He began seven years ago with fifty cents. Savings banks are a great blessing, especially to the plain people with moderate incomes. Many of the children of all parts of the country have deposits in these savings institutions. Children should be taught the value of saving money, and of the earning power of money through interest.
"That's a good showing for the California city and it is gratifying to know that the savings habit is being encouraged, in all parts of the country. In many places the schools are organized and the teachers collect the pennies for a savings bank account.
"It is an old saying that the first thousand dollars is the most difficult to accumulate, and that when secured early in life, it means the foundation of fortune. The statement is true for the dollars taken care of themselves, if the pennies are saved.

EFFECT OF CLIMATE ON WORK
Observation Has Shown That It Has Much Influence on One's Capacity.
In Connecticut the effect of changes of temperature from day to day is about half as great as the effect of the changes from season to season. If the temperature remains unchanged people work slowly. If it rises they may be stimulated a little. If it falls, on the other hand, provided the fall is not excessive, there is a decided stimulus. The effect of constant changes of weather may be compared to that produced upon a horse by a good driver. If the animal is allowed to go his own gait, with no stimulus whatever, he will travel fast at first and then settle down to a slow pace which will protract a journey indefinitely. If he is constantly urged to his topmost speed he may make the first journey quickly, but he will soon break down. The wise driver urges him for a short time and then lets him go more slowly. By constantly repeating this process he gets good speed from his animal, and yet prevents him from becoming exhausted. This is what constant changes of temperature seem to do to man. Therefore, in reckoning the value of any climate from the point of view of efficiency, storms must be rated as of high value. If they alone were the controlling element southern Canada, from Alberta eastward, would possess the best climate in the world, while the northern United States, from the Dakotas and Nebraska eastward, the northwestern part of Europe, northern Italy and Japan would come next. England, it will be noticed, is the only country included both in the regions just mentioned and in those where the mean temperature of the seasons approaches the ideal.—Harper's Magazine.

THE JITNEY BUS.
That the jitney bus is a bad doomed to short life is apparent from the experience of many cities, where the system has been installed. Accidents are of daily occurrence, with nobody responsible for damage. The following is a fair sample:
"Panic reigned among about twenty passengers in a jitney at Baltimore recently when the vehicle caught fire and was destroyed. Most of the occupants were returning from trips into the country via the jitney. The passengers, and while waiting for the bus to start, suddenly heard an explosion, and the next instant found themselves enveloped in flames.
"Five persons were painfully burned, one man, who broke a window with his fist, had an artery in his wrist cut, and others suffered sprained backs and shoulders in the scramble to escape.
"On the same day another jitney accident occurred, which brought forth the following comment from the Baltimore News:
"There occurred yesterday two jitney bus accidents, in one of which five people were more or less badly injured, while in the second sixteen passengers narrowly escaped.
"The cause of the explosion of gasoline in the Relay bus, which was badly fixed. It may or may not have been the fault of the chauffeur. The other machine skidded into a ditch, again with some doubt as to the chauffeur's responsibility. The two cases may be treated as single accidents, one of which will be the subject of investigation and the other dropped; but they raise together the one as much as the other—the much more serious question as to what security shall be given the public against financial irresponsibility of jitney bus owners in general.
"The trolley company has a treasury which can be assailed. Relatively to its total number of passengers carried in a day, no single accident would be catastrophic in character. But the jitney bus owner, whose chief capital may consist of only two or three cheap automobiles, is not in position to pay out damages in thousands of dollars.

SNAP SHOTS
Contrary to his wife's belief, a man doesn't care for young girls and wouldn't marry one if he had an opportunity to do so.
A woman stops in front of a shop window for the purpose of looking at the wares displayed therein. A man looks into a shop window with the hope that he may catch a glimpse of his own reflection in the glass.
It is the man who listens to both sides of the question who meets the greatest number of liars.
There is one exception to the rule that a woman is as old as she looks before breakfast. An actress is from ten to fifteen years younger.
Investigation of the causes which led an elderly man to do a foolish thing usually will reveal a second wife under thirty-five years of age.
Buck Kirby says a man of leisure is one who has time to finish a game of three-cushion billiards.
What has become of the old-fashioned soda fountain which yielded sarsaparilla?
The trouble is not so much that people cheer nonsense as that they vote for it.
When a man shows his ankles, that is an expose. When a woman displays hers, that is an exhibition.
If what a man desires is to hug a woman he doesn't make dancing an accessory to the offense.

Reaching an Understanding.
A big row was going on in an Atlantic home and finally, the Globe says, one of the neighbors rushed in and said to a woman who was red in the face from screaming at a very angry looking man, "Look here, what's the matter?" "Oh, it's nothing," said the red-faced woman. "Father and I are having a perfect understanding, that's all."

Within the Last Year

professors in the Eastern Universities have discovered a CURE FOR PYORRHEA which is the dental germ disease that loosens human teeth. Therefore dentists had to tell patients that there was no hope of saving the teeth once this disease got a hold of them. Now it is different. I am now treating this condition with good results. My patients tell me their loose teeth tighten up at once. Their gums cease to bleed upon the slightest touch as heretofore. Their stomach disturbances vanish because the constant oozing of pus from gums ceases. Pus poisons the whole system.

TWO TAX BILLS MEET DEFEAT IN ASSEMBLY

BILL FOR PUTTING INCOME TAX TO LOCAL ASSESSOR GETS THE AX TODAY.

ADJOURN TILL MONDAY

Postpone Bill to Make Saloon Keepers Liable to Injury of Persons to Whom They Sold Liquor.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Madison, May 7.—The defeat of two bills, to transfer the administration of the income tax law to local assessors, and for a bill for the semi-annual payment of taxes, was accomplished by the lower house in the legislature today.

The assembly also killed the Prescott bill prohibiting a state officer or employee from appointing a relative to a state position, although the name appears on the eligible list on the civil service commission. The Harrington bill to repeal the divorce act was also defeated. Assemblyman Frederick sought to secure the enactment of a law to hold the saloon keeper liable to injury to a person to whom he had sold liquor, while such person is in an intoxicated state. It was opposed by Assemblyman Carl Hanson and Bradley. It was indefinitely postponed.

The administration bill consolidating the state board of health, board of control, dairy and food commission, all inspectors and treasury agent into commission of five members named by the governor at a salary of $4,000 annually, was recommended for passage with only assemblyman Weber and Kubatzki dissenting.

With an amendment to the Doherty cigarette bill, making the dealer's license fee ten dollars instead of five, and another amendment removing the clause which requires minors to tell where they purchased cigarettes and making the failure to do so a misdemeanor, the measure was set over until Wednesday.

The state fair appropriation repeal bill also was defeated.

Bills killed including several recommended by anti-vivisection committee, one recommending saloons be licensed to premises, according to lot and block number and another prohibiting giving of false names in court action. The substitute waterpower bill was made a special order for next Thursday morning. The legislature adjourned until Monday night.

A Very Special Suit Sale $14.75

Rehberg Offers a Big Bargain in Suits for Tomorrow's Selling.

The reason for this sale might be due to a fortunate chain of circumstances. We found a well known maker who had a surplus of some 300 men's and young men's suits in worsted and chevrons containing all the wanted sizes between 33 and 44 and by offering him spot cash got the entire lot of suits for much less than they were intended to sell. And so we hand on the saving to our patrons. The suits go on sale tomorrow for $14.75 which price allows us to make a small profit on each suit. You may come here prepared to find some really unusual suit values at this price.

PUBLIC ASKED TO BE PATIENT FOR PRESENT

Charles Wild, proprietor of the Myers hotel, expresses regret that the public have been inconvenienced by the dumping of trucks on the sidewalk at the Milwaukee street entrance. He said this morning: "As soon as we have completed our extensive repairs on the interior, we will have plenty of room for these trucks to be removed from the walk immediately on arrival at the hotel. At the present time, with the installation of the new elevator, repairs to the basement which include new toilet arrangements, installation of new bath room and running water in rooms on the upper floors, our storage rooms have been over-taxed with the increased trade which we are experiencing, and storage for material used in the repairs. This, however, will soon be completed and we shall be in a position to handle this excess baggage promptly, so the public will not be inconvenienced." According to Chief of Police Chapman, no formal complaint was made as to the blocking of the sidewalk, as was erroneously stated.

He leaves a wife and five sons. They are: A. Hyatt Smith, J. W.

For more than 5000 Years

Tradition traces the use of tea as a beverage back to the year 2324 B. C. For more than fifty centuries tea has been a grateful and comforting drink to mankind. A rare old manuscript in the British Museum, purported to be a translation from the Chinese, thus quaintly enumerates the virtues of the "herb called tea":

- 1—"It purifies the blood of that which is Gross and Heavy."
- 2—"It vanquishes Heavy Dreams."
- 3—"It opens Obstructions."
- 4—"It cures the Stomach."
- 5—"It purifies the Defects of the Bladder and Kidneys."
- 6—"It vanquishes Superfluous Sleep."
- 7—"It encourages the Heart and drives away Fear."
- 8—"It strengthens the Memory and quickens the Understanding."
- 9—"It drives away Pains of the Gills and safely cures the Cough."
- 10—"It strengthens the use of the Bowels."

The use of tea is world-wide, and the demand for it is growing in the United States. Whenever good teas are given the consumer the drinking of tea increases.

Under the Arbuckle Brand you can get a fine grade of tea at a moderate price—every variety—all one good tea—quality; choice selections from the tea gardens of Japan, China, Ceylon, India, Formosa and Java.

In 1 lb., ½ lb. and ¼ lb. Cansisters

The surest way to get good tea is to buy the Arbuckle Brand Tea from your grocer. It is easy to make delicious tea from any variety.

SIDE TALKS

By RUTH KAYSON CAMERON

SPENDING OTHER PEOPLE'S MONEY

How rare it is to find anyone who doesn't feel called upon to spend other people's money for them.

I have a neighbor who does every bit of her own work, including her washing, although her husband is able and willing to have a helper for her. Most of the money she saves in this way she spends upon her home. Her furniture is the most costly in the neighborhood, her china is exquisite and her beautifully embroidered linen is of the finest.

Now, my neighbor also has a neighbor. This woman lives in a small house very simply furnished, but she keeps a helper.

My neighbor cannot understand this. "I should think she would want to fix up her house," she says, "even if she did have to work a little harder." The maid's board and wages and what she wastes must cost her ten dollars a week. Just think, if she went without a maid for a year she could furnish that house decently."

How Much More Wisely She Would Use It.

And my neighbor sighs with the unregretted helplessness of those who could spend other people's money so much more wisely if they were allowed to do so.

A day or two later my neighbor's neighbor, she of the small house and plain furniture, is talking about her neighbor at an afternoon tea at which the latter had the misfortune not to be present.

"My dear," I hear her say to the woman at her right, "how can Mrs. M. be willing to slave over that house from morning until night? She never has time for anything else. I should think she'd rather have a little less expensive furniture and some time to enjoy life."

If I Had Her Money.

"Or some better looking clothes," says the other woman who is known for the simplicity of her table and the elaborateness of her toilets. "If I had her money."

Owing to a shift in the alignment of force I am deprived of the pleasure of knowing how she would spend her neighbor's money, but I can guess.

I have quoted others because that's easier than quoting myself, but I often catch myself saying, "I should think she'd spend less for," etc.

I fancy there are few indoor sports more universally enjoyed than criticizing one's neighbor for the way he spends his money and explaining how much more wisely he could spend it.

It gives one such a sense of superiority and a sense of superiority is something we all feel obliged to have, even if we must buy it by silly, useless and uncalled for criticism of what is, to put it frankly—none of our business.

Questions and Answers.

Question: "Can you give me a name for a Sunday School Class?"

Answer: I asked our minister's wife and she gave me the following names which have been used in parishes to which she was attached: The Crescents, The Rainbows, The Daisies, The Willing Workers, The Barabars for young men and the Philathea for young women are national organizations of Bible Classes.

Heart and Home Problems

By MRS. ELLA BETH THOMPSON

Letters May Be Addressed To Mrs. Thompson, in Care of The Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) If a girl meets a boy friend in town and they ride home on the car together, should the girl let the boy pay her carfare?

(2) I have been invited to a class banquet and asked to bring my boy friend. Although I have been earning my own money for a year, he is still in school and his family is not very well off. It will probably cost $7.50 a plate. Which one of us should pay the bill?

(3) Would you blame a girl for being angry at a fellow if he came to take her to a social without a collar on, just as he turned in at the neck? G. E. M.

(1) Each should pay his own fare. (2) You should pay the bill. Arrange to pay it before the banquet if possible.

(3) I wouldn't blame a girl for being shocked, but it is no occasion to be angry. A kindly suggestion that the fellow with a collar on would cause no ill-feeling and it would help him to do what is right.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have a percale dress with blue flowers in it and I got it spotted with ink. How can I remove them without taking the color out of the flowers?

QUESTION BOX.

Soak the spots in milk and salt. Rub with fingers to loosen the ink.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) We are two sisters sixteen and eighteen years old. Are we too young to go with the boys? Our parents think we are and never allow us to go with them. Do you think it is all right to go without their knowing it?

(2) Do you think it is all right to go with a boy who has called you up several times, but whom you have never met?

LUCILLE AND MARIE.

(1) The oldest of persuasion which you have mentioned will not irritate the skin or make it sore. It may be used as often as desired.

(2) It is the cornstarch used for cooking purposes.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have many boy friends and one of which I thought the most of, but now we do not speak. This boy friend was walking down the street with another boy (friend of mine, and the other told him that I got boys into trouble and many other things which are not at all true. And the boy believed it. I tried to explain that it was not true, but he didn't believe me and I want to be friends with him again, not to go with him, but just to be friends. Please tell me what to do. DOLLY.

You have gained the reputation among the boys of being cheap and they would not dare nor care to talk about you as they do. Be dignified with the boys and if you develop a character worthy of respect, they will want to have you for a friend.

In reply to Dimple: (1) The ointment for perspiration which you have mentioned will not irritate the skin or make it sore. It may be used as often as desired.

Glimpses of Married Life

By MRS. EVA LEONARD

"We'd better send for mother," said Dick, when everything had quieted down for the night. "We can't do that. She is a busy woman. We simply can't ask her to drop everything and come to our relief every time we get into trouble."

"I have not been able to get a maid and you can't get along and housekeeper, too," Dick was evidently worried.

"I suppose we could have the little girl," said Dick, "as to have her here in an emergency, said Neil, "that little girl can't take care of a sick man and a baby too. So he drove me to the train this morning."

"How dear of both of you," said Neil, "but I am sure Dick is awake, come and see him."

"Well, this certainly is good of you," said Dick, reaching out his hand.

"That's what mothers are for, to help out," said Dick, "in a matter of fact he was pecking at his cheek. "You were always great for breaking bones. You must have broken nearly all the handy ones first and last."

Dick laughed. "Broken bones are not like most children's afflictions. You can have them twice."

"Oh, you are all right. You can joke."

"Here's the baby," she said, extending her arms to take him from Neil, who entered the room with the little fellow. "He certainly looks well, in spite of the hot weather. What are you feeding him?"

"Something the doctor recommended. We have had an awful time getting anything to agree with him. I've been very regular in feeding him."

"Nonsense. In my time babies were fed when they were hungry and they grew like little animals. Mothers could feed their babies in those days. Now they are fed by the clock, slept by the clock, bathed by the clock. She shook her head disdainfully.

"Our babies turned out to be pretty nice, too," said Neil, "stirring Dick's forehead."

"He might be worse," she said, smiling over the top of her spectacles.

"Even if I am rather brittle," laughed Dick. "You will always be able to identify me by my complete set of mended bones, now that we have X-rays."

"Were you much upset when you heard the news?" asked grandpa as she pinched the baby's cheeks.

"Miss Rudolph brought the word," began.

"Miss Rudolph, that silly stenographer," snapped Mrs. Morton. "Yes, she asked in such a sincere womanly fashion to be allowed to help me that I was greatly surprised. And she did it for me to go out riding every afternoon between four and ing the doctor. It seems she had young brothers and sisters to care for at home. I think she is very much humiliated over that letter."

"It is to be hoped so," grunted Dick's mother.

PARIS HAS FASHION DESPITE THE FIGHT

Ruffs and Buttons Mark the Attire of the Gay Little Paris Ladies, Reports Margaret Mason.

(By Margaret Mason.)

It's a little ruff on Paris. Everywhere you look this Spring.

All the ladies fair are ruff necks; It is quite the swagger thing.

Paris, May 7. (By Mail to New York)—She's right there with a bang and a ruff these days. The short fringe of hair over her brow and the wide expanse of corrugated white muslin around her throat seem to be the truly essential parts of a chic Parisienne's toilette.

It's quite the same old ruff we had with us a couple of seasons ago of pleated white muslin or batiste. It is worn up around the top of a high collar like an aureole under the chin or a halo out of place.

It is like a floppy white clown's ruff outlining a round out cut neck.

Ruffs are especially used on the omnipresent short skirted frocks of navy blue or black. Pleated cuffs to match the ruffs usually finish the long or elbow sleeves. For yes, indeed, the short sleeves are rapidly ousted the long effects for warm weather wear.

Smart blouses as well as the tulle frocks have the abbreviated arm coverings.

Long braids is another fad just now on the Parisian. She wears it in the form of a cord twisted about the belt of her garbaidine suit or as a flat half inch wide braid outlining the neck of her tulle frock, a touch on the belt.

And outlining the base of her upstanding ruff.

As for buttons well—"Button, button, who's got the button" is no kind of a game to play over here. Every body got it. There's an epidemic of buttons. They spring out like a Spring rash in the most rash places. You're buttoned up and you're buttoned down. You've simply got to be filthy with buttons or you can't hope to butt in as a smart young person.

I even saw some round red ones suspended on shoulache braid loops, daisy chains in the bottom of suit cases and on the edge of a short apron panel on the front of the skirt. Bullet buttons of amber, green, bright blue, gunmetal, gold and silver oval buttons in the same color and round buttons with insets of a contrasting color are some of the most blatantly buttony buttons.

The modistes have gone to their kitchen tables for inspiration and covered lovely women on top with oilcloth. All the rainy days of April and May, the best heads have been crowned in chic little hats of ordinary black and white oilcloth. A few in red, green or blue have bobbed about but the "noire et blanche" effects as in everything else have the majority.

These practical little oilcloth chapeaux, defying alike sun, rain and dust, are the queerest of the season. Isn't it funny how the stamp "imported" is the stamp of approval without equal? Just as we in America strive to acquire a Paris bonnet or Paris gown and English coat or an English accent so over here it but comes from that dear "Etats Unis" "Ma fois but it is tres chic."

Like in London the short vamp and nosed little slippers and high shoes with their gray white, green or beige tops are dubbed Americaine, and religiously believed to be modeled on our American last-first last and always.

Then there are the signs on the smartest tailor shops—"Rue de la Made" and "Jack de New York" to say nothing of "High Life" which the Parisian pronounce "Big Leaf." Their pronunciation certainly makes it a delicious joke. It only misses sounding like a leaf at the start off.

The best joke of all the "imported" line is that those highly colored and costly shoes which are worn in America have been won't to reverently designate as Martine and Poiret, the Frenchiest of all France silks, are as reverently designated Satayama silks over here.

It is believed that we were to put an old sleuth on their shimmering train we would discover their habitat in the silk mills of Paterson, New Jersey. Really they ought to be Lyon silks, oughtn't they?

If you have any article which you wish to sell let the public know it through a classified ad.

Just as we in America strive to acquire a Paris bonnet or Paris gown and English coat or an English accent so over here it but comes from that dear "Etats Unis" "Ma fois but it is tres chic."

Like in London the short vamp and nosed little slippers and high shoes with their gray white, green or beige tops are dubbed Americaine, and religiously believed to be modeled on our American last-first last and always.

Then there are the signs on the smartest tailor shops—"Rue de la Made" and "Jack de New York" to say nothing of "High Life" which the Parisian pronounce "Big Leaf." Their pronunciation certainly makes it a delicious joke. It only misses sounding like a leaf at the start off.

The best joke of all the "imported" line is that those highly colored and costly shoes which are worn in America have been won't to reverently designate as Martine and Poiret, the Frenchiest of all France silks, are as reverently designated Satayama silks over here.

It is believed that we were to put an old sleuth on their shimmering train we would discover their habitat in the silk mills of Paterson, New Jersey. Really they ought to be Lyon silks, oughtn't they?

If you have any article which you wish to sell let the public know it through a classified ad.

As for buttons well—"Button, button, who's got the button" is no kind of a game to play over here. Every body got it. There's an epidemic of buttons. They spring out like a Spring rash in the most rash places. You're buttoned up and you're buttoned down. You've simply got to be filthy with buttons or you can't hope to butt in as a smart young person.

I even saw some round red ones suspended on shoulache braid loops, daisy chains in the bottom of suit cases and on the edge of a short apron panel on the front of the skirt. Bullet buttons of amber, green, bright blue, gunmetal, gold and silver oval buttons in the same color and round buttons with insets of a contrasting color are some of the most blatantly buttony buttons.

The modistes have gone to their kitchen tables for inspiration and covered lovely women on top with oilcloth. All the rainy days of April and May, the best heads have been crowned in chic little hats of ordinary black and white oilcloth. A few in red, green or blue have bobbed about but the "noire et blanche" effects as in everything else have the majority.

These practical little oilcloth chapeaux, defying alike sun, rain and dust, are the queerest of the season. Isn't it funny how the stamp "imported" is the stamp of approval without equal? Just as we in America strive to acquire a Paris bonnet or Paris gown and English coat or an English accent so over here it but comes from that dear "Etats Unis" "Ma fois but it is tres chic."

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—No. Angeline Hasn't Been Entirely Idle.

BY F. LEIPZIGER

GIRLS WITH BEAUTIFUL FACES
OR GRACEFUL FIGURES

American girls have a world-wide reputation for beauty, but, at the same time, there are girls in our cities who possess neither beauty of face nor form, because in these instances they suffer from nervousness, the result of disorders of the womanly organism. At regular intervals they suffer so much that their strength leaves them; they are so prostrated that it takes days for them to recover their strength. Of course, such periodic distress has its bad effect on the nervous system. The withered and downy faces, the dark circles and the straight figure without those curves which lead so much to feminine beauty are the unmistakable signs of womanly disorders.

When a girl becomes a woman, when a woman becomes a mother, when women pass through the changes of middle life, are the three periods of life when health and strength are most needed to withstand the pain and distress often caused by severe organic disturbances.

At these critical times women are best fortified by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, an old remedy of proved worth that keeps the entire female system perfectly regulated and in excellent condition.

Mothers, if your daughters are weak, lack ambition, are troubled with headaches, lassitude and are pale and sickly, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is just what they need to surely bring the bloom of health to their cheeks and make them strong and healthy.

If you are a sufferer, if your daughter, mother, sister need help get Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription in liquid or tablet form. Then address Dr. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., and receive confidential advice from a staff of specialists, that's free; also 136-page book on women's diseases sent free.—Advertisement.

BISURATED
MAGNESIA

For dyspepsia, indigestion, souring of the stomach, and heartburn, a teaspoonful of a solution of Bisurated Magnesia in a glass of water, taken after each meal, will relieve all troubles in either powder or tablet form at 50 cents per bottle. Advertisement.

A SIMPLE WAY TO REMOVE DANDRUFF

Prevent Falling Hair and End Itching Scalp.

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff, at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid glycerine from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips. By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve, and entirely destroy, every single bit and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

If you value your hair, you should get rid of dandruff at once, for nothing destroys the hair so quickly. It not only starves the hair and makes it fall out, but it makes it stringy, straggly, dull, brittle and lifeless, and everybody notices it.

ELKHART LAKE WOMAN
FINDS SWIFT RELIEF

Mrs. Brieske Gets Wonderful Results From Remedy.

Mrs. W. C. Brieske of Elkhart Lake, Wis., after long suffering from derangements of the stomach and digestive tract, tried a dose of May's Wonderful Remedy. The results she had long hoped for came quickly—with the first dose.

A letter she told of her experience. "Am writing to let you know that your medicine has done me a lot of good. I have passed between five and six hundred accretions varying in size from a pea to a large hickory nut. I feel a whole lot better now. I am going to have my mother try your wonderful remedy."

May's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much as you desire, like a normal person, no more distress after eating, pressure of gas in the stomach and around the heart. Get one bottle of your drugist now and try it on an absolute guarantee—if not satisfactory money will be returned.

A FOOL
AND HIS MONEY

"Yes, sir. What I was about to suggest, sir, is that while we're about it, we might as well have a system of electric bells put in—that is to say, sir, in both wings of the castle. Very convenient, sir, you see, for all parties concerned."

"I see," said I, impressed, and then repeated it, a little more impressed after reflection. "I see. You are a very resourceful fellow, Britton. I am inclined to bounce all of the Schmicks. They have known about this from the start and have lived like thieves. By Jove, she must have an extraordinary power over them or claim or something equally potent. Now I think of it, she mentioned a grandfather. That would go to prove she's related in some way to some one, wouldn't it?"

"I should consider it to be more than likely, sir," said Britton, with a perfectly straight face. He must have been sorely tried in the face of my insane mania. "Pardon me, sir, but wouldn't it be a tip-top idea to have it out with the Schmicks to-night?"

"Excellent idea, Britton. We'll have them up in my study."

CHAPTER VI.
"Who is this woman?"
ONRAD and Gretel appeared with Britton after an unconscious lapse of time, particularly dressed and grumbling.

Milton Junction News

DEMISE OF O. COTTRELL SHOCK TO CITIZENS OF MILTON JUNCTION.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Milton Junction, May 6.—The community was greatly shocked last Monday morning when it learned that Ormanzo Cottrell had dropped dead at his shop. For a long time Mr. Cottrell has been in poor health. He had not regained his normal health after a severe illness last winter. He was endeavoring to resume his work again, perhaps exerting himself beyond his strength when he was stricken with heart failure. Mr. Cottrell was born in Almond, Alleghany county, N. Y., May 14, 1851. He was the son of Thomas and Elizabeth Cottrell. He was the third child born to them. When Mr. Cottrell was one week old his mother died. His aunt, Miss Sarah Cottrell, came into the home and tenderly cared for the motherless household. At the age of seventeen he came to Milton. Since that time has made his home in this vicinity with the exception of four years when he was engaged with his brother-in-law, Mr. Crandall, in business in Demson, Iowa.

On November 23, 1882 he and Miss Ida B. Tanner were united in marriage. Three children were born to them, the first one dying in infancy. Mr. Cottrell was a quiet, unassuming man but one who won and held friendship. He was thoughtful and kind to his townspeople. He leaves to mourn his passing, a bereaved wife, two children, Howard L. and Mrs. Helen Hull, a sister, Mrs. Lucinda Crandall, a step-mother, Mrs. Rebecca Cottrell, a half brother and a half sister, Elden Cottrell and Mrs. Lorena Mills.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home and at the S. J. Church at Milton Junction conducted by Rev. H. N. Jordan. Burial was in the cemetery at Milton Junction.

Funerals. Mrs. Webster Miller has gone to Appleton to visit relatives. The Misses Beulah Greenman, Corinne Crandall and Blanche Miles came from Whitewater last night and went to Albion to attend a C. E. social.

Mrs. Plautz has gone to Beloit for a few weeks visit.

F. L. Hull spent Wednesday in Madison.

CITY SCHOOLS IN EXERCISES TODAY; PARENTS' MEETING

Arbor Day Programs Given Throughout Grades This Afternoon—Many Attend High School Exhibit

The public graded schools of the city held Arbor Day exercises this afternoon in their respective rooms at the nine various buildings. At the completion of the programs, the pupils were dismissed for the day.

The exhibit at the high school attracted a good deal of attention, many parents visiting the building with their children. Three departments placed work on exhibit, they being manual training, domestic science and agricultural departments. The gymnasium was used as the show room, and the students taking this work were in charge.

Tonight at the high school the closing parents' meeting of the year will be held, commencing at seven-thirty o'clock. An open house, during which time the guests will be given the opportunity to pass from one room to another and meet the instructors, will be the feature of the evening. A short program is planned for Principal Shearer, who has been interested in the progress of the high school to attend the meeting tonight and give the co-operative spirit between the school and home a boost.

YOUNGER GERMANS ARE ALLOWED LIBERTY IN THE ENGLISH EMPIRE.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

London, May 7.—Of the 27,200 male Germans above the age of seventeen years in the United Kingdom, only 8,600 have been interned in the concentration camps. The remaining 18,600 are, save for having to report to the police at certain periods, quite as free as the neutral aliens in Great Britain.

The figures were made public in a government paper containing the correspondence between the British Foreign Office and the American ambassador regarding the treatment of civilians.

The British government allowed German subjects to leave the country in the early days of the war as follows: Women and children, males under sixteen and over forty-four and persons between these years not liable to military service, providing they would give no undertaking to take no part, direct or indirect, in assisting in the operations of war.

Persons who were not allowed to leave were: Men under duty of naval or military service in Germany. Persons held in custody for crimes or on a definite suspicion of espionage. Persons between the ages of sixteen and forty-four who, although free from military naval duty, would not give the undertaking referred to.

An agreement was accordingly made between the two governments that elderly invalid British officers who were taking cures at the German baths at the time of the outbreak have not yet been released. Britain allowed retired German officers to return home, but Germany now demands an equivalent number of German officers captured in battle in exchange for the invalids.

MILWAUKEE HEIRS FIGHT WILL CASE

Action Started in Denver Court Relative to Last Will of Late John J. McGinnity.

According to dispatches from Denver, Colorado, action in behalf of three heirs of the late John J. McGinnity, the lumber king, who died there on March 28, a contest was started on Thursday against the probating of the McGinnity will. The Wisconsin heirs who are John, Owen, Susan, Bridget and James Kearns of Milwaukee, sons and daughters of McGinnity's deceased sister, Susan McGinnity Kearns.

The will, which was prepared and signed when McGinnity was on his death bed, leaves the bulk of his estate, valued at $1,500,000, to William McPhee of Denver, a son of his business partner. In the contest the charge is made that at the time of signing the will McGinnity "was not possessed of sufficient capacity to execute the instrument as his last will and testament," and was kept alive by drugs and hypodermic injections.

According to the will filed, which the Milwaukee heirs seek to break, Mercy Hospital, in this city, was left ten thousand dollars, and an equal sum was given to St. Joseph's convent. Two nieces residing in this city and a nephew, Father James McGinnity of Milton Junction, were also named as heirs.

OKLAHOMA EDITORS TO DISCUSS WAR NEWS STORIES.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Guthrie, Okla., May 7.—One of the chief topics for discussion at the Oklahoma Press Association Convention which opens here today will be how to conduct a country newspaper in war time. All types of opinions are requested in the five hundred newspaper delegates gathered here and the biggest question before the convention will be the how to print in the war news and still keep within President Wilson's definition of neutrality.

With the press agents of all the European belligerents doing their utmost to get their most favorable side of the present conflict before the American public, editors find it a difficult and exacting proposition to separate the chaff from the wheat.

But all the discussion will not be confined to war topics. A paper on the values of the literary in country newspaper editors will be an address on "Some Liars I have Known" are on the program.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulisified coconut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. Or use two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulisified coconut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

As Peace Price, Italy Demands Surrender of Entire Sea Coast

Washington, D. C., May 7.—As the price of peace, Italy is reported to be expected from the Dual Monarchy's surrender of the entire sea coast. These expectations are said to amount to demands as regards Trieste, Istria and Fiume. In connection with showing the true significance of such demands, Italy has today a statement dealing with the true significance of such demands, Italy has today a statement dealing with the true significance of such demands, Italy has today a statement dealing with the true significance of such demands.

Austria-Hungary carries on its business with the outside world through its great ports, Trieste and Fiume. The future of its overseas commerce is largely bound up with the development of these cities; for Trieste and Fiume are the New York and Boston of Austria-Hungary. Here, they are the Dual Monarchy's Hamburg and Bremen. Fiume is the only outlet of the Hungarian kingdom to the sea, and the Hungarians have spent millions of dollars in their endeavor to make it a model port. The great Austrian port and the Hungarian port are keen rivals, and during the last few years, Fiume has grown somewhat at the cost of its northern neighbor.

Owing to the deep interest which the Hungarians take in their coast city, the business of Fiume has grown rapidly. There are several harbors: one for coasting vessels, one for timber, and a general harbor, begun in 1872, and capable of accommodating about 200 large vessels. It is protected by a breakwater more than half a mile in length, and is flanked by a great, modern quay more than two miles long. The wharves and elevators are equipped in the most up-to-date fashion for the handling of a huge inflow and outflow of trade. The waterfront, as the rest of the city, is lighted by electricity.

In 1910, Fiume was entered by 17,550 vessels of 3,981,381 tons. Its approximate figures for its business totaled $55,000,000, divided into an export business of $35,000,000 and an import trade of $200,000,000. Its trade is thus about one-half that of the port of San Francisco. Its exports consist chiefly of the agricultural products of Hungary, grain, flour, sugar, timber, horses, and some manufactured wares. The principal imports are coal, wine, rice, various minerals, fruit, jute, chemicals, oils and tobacco. There are several industrial establishments in the city, among them Whitehead's torpedo factory, a large paper-mill, a royal tobacco factory, four mills, tanneries and rope factories. The fisheries of the city are important. Quarnero Gulf being filled with food fishes. Fiume is picturesquely situated at the head of the Gulf of Quarnero, at the southern base of the Istrian triangle, 40 miles southeast of Trieste, or about 70 miles away by the railroad through the mountainous coastland. The city has more than 50,000 population. The Italians constitute the largest part of the populace, and, together with the Slavonians, comprise about 90 per cent. Geographically, Fiume belongs to Croatia. In 1870, however, it finally became a part of the Hungarian kingdom. The Italians, who favor the Hungarians as opposed to the Slavonians, are practically in control of the city's administration. Fiume occupies seven square miles of land carved out of Croatia. Around its waterfront, there is a narrow, level plain upon which the new town is built, with its convenient, modern ground-plan, fine business structures and generally substantial architecture. The old town climbs the hills in a quaint disorder of irregular, narrow streets and haphazard houses. Views of the city and its surroundings from the deck of an approaching steamer are delightful, and there are a number of pleasant tours to be made in the neighborhood. Fiume has been Austrian since 1471.

DIFFICULT PROBLEM TO PLANT HARVESTS

Since Russians Occupy Farming Lands of East Prussia and People are Scattered no Crops are Planted.

Koenigsberg, Prussia, May 7.—One of the most difficult problems that the government of East Prussia is trying to solve is to get the frontier district of the province, recently occupied by the Russians, planted in time for this year's harvests. The agricultural lands in question can produce 1,000,000 tons of grain; and the authorities are planning and working to get them under cultivation and so contribute toward keeping up the country's food supplies. The obstacles to be overcome, however, are great. Most of the population are refugees in other parts, and their homes were so generally destroyed that some of the most important regions have not yet been declared open for the return of the refugees. In others the inhabitants have come back, and the influx continues.

Not only the people, but the horses of the provinces were scattered to the four winds. It is the most important horse-breeding region in Germany, less than 110,000 head were kept in the devastated districts. A small part of these were saved by taking them to more distant parts of the country; and these animals are now being brought back to the devastated farms. Horses captured from the Russian army that are no longer able to do the heavy military work are being pressed into service in planting the fields. But the supply of plow-horses is not near great enough, and motor plows and harrows are being extensively used.

Russian prisoners have been set to plowing in larger numbers, and German soldiers are to be furloughed to some extent to assist in farm-work. Field Marshal von Hindenburg has promised that the military authorities will do everything possible in this way to get the fields planted. The provincial authorities have gone about the solution of this problem with characteristic German thoroughness. Under their auspices committees have been organized in the various districts to take in hand the revival of agriculture. These have a fund of some $7,000,000 Government money at their disposal, which is to be distributed among the farmers at a fixed rate per acre planted.

Amusements

(Notices furnished by the theatres.)

AT MYERS THEATRE. Starting Sunday matinee "The Debutantes" will present a series of musical comedies. The following clipping from the Beloit News tells how they were received in that city.

Musical Comedy at Orpheum. The musical comedy company of twelve people playing "The Debutantes" opened a four days' engagement at the Orpheum theatre yesterday to packed houses and scored a decided hit. The show was clean, refined and well staged, and the songs were pleasing. Edwin Stanley, who plays the music teacher, wrote all the songs and the cast also numbers Fred Hereden, the lyricist who wrote "Love Makes the World Go Round" and many others. The girls and the gowns were "dreams."

That Beloit is getting "big time stuff" is shown by the fact that the company recently closed an engagement at the McVicker's vaudeville house in Chicago. O. L. Hall of the Chicago Journal, on April 21, said of the act at the McVickers: "Hereden has given his sketch good pictorial value by supplying the young women with nice things to wear, and he has employed principals who have some ability to sing." Hall also complimented Stanley for his singing of the rose song and his characterization of the eccentric pianist.

AGRICULTURAL and GARDEN DEPT

ALLEN B. WEST, Director

(By Allen B. West.)
Question—How shall I put out an asparagus bed?
Answer—Asparagus may be easily raised from seed, but the usual method is to buy the plants, which are ready for transplanting the next year after seed is planted. It is best to move them early in the spring, but they may be transplanted as late as June 1st. Any long sprouts that may have started should be broken off when the plants are set out. The land should be heavily manured, deeply plowed and finely pulverized. It is important that this work be well done since the bed once started, will last for twenty years. The plants may be set three feet apart each way in a family garden. They should ordinarily be set about six inches deep. The plants should not be covered to the full depth of six inches at once or the shoots may never be able to push up to the surface. They should be covered about three inches at first and the furrows filled in until the middle of the summer they should be filled. The plants should be thoroughly cultivated the first year and by autumn the tops should be three feet high. As soon as they are dead they should be cut off close to the ground and then the land should have a light plowing or be worked up in some way to the depth of four inches. In the spring the land should be cultivated as soon as it will work well. There should not be much cut until the spring of the third year after planting.

Question—Please give directions for the killing of dandelions by spraying.
Answer—Spray with 20 percent solution of iron sulphate or 10 pounds of iron sulphate in 40 pounds of water, on a clear, warm day, when the dew is off. This solution will spot clothes and the sidewalk, so care is needed in its use. It should be sprayed a day or two after lawn has been clipped and several applications may be necessary.

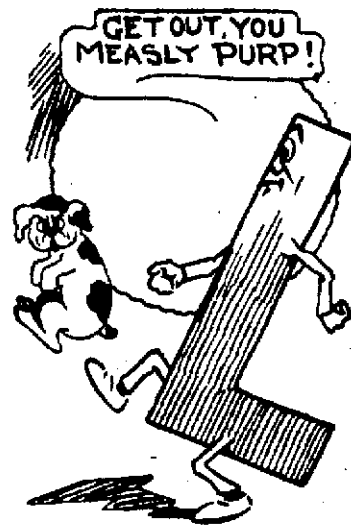

Question—What flowers will grow on the north side of the house where the sun does not shine at any time during the day.
Answer—Flowers need sunshine; some more and some less. Better use the place for ferns.

Question—When setting out shrubs, What color?

should they be pruned? If so, how much?
Answer—The general rule is to cut back the tops one-third.

Question—What can be done to prevent wormy apples?
Answer—Spraying with poison solutions, either arsenate of lead or paris green, as directed in the article on spraying in the Gazette of Wednesday, May 5, is the remedy for appleworm. Spray first when blossoms fall, then again in 10 days, and then 10 days after that. Spray again about July 15 and then again ten days later.

Three Pictures from God's Album

By REV. B. B. SUTCLIFFE
Assistant Superintendent of Men, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT—Abraham dwelled in the land of Canaan, and Lot dwelled in the cities of the plain, and pitched his tent towards Sodom. But the men of Sodom were wicked and sinners before the Lord exceedingly.—Gen. 12:12, 13.

Someone has said that the Old Testament is God's picture gallery where he has given us in picture form the doctrines and truths he develops in the New Testament. Our text has three of these pictures, in which three classes of persons are described—Abraham, Lot and the men of Sodom.

Living for Self. Taking these in reverse order, we can see how the men of Sodom illustrate a large number of people today. They are those whose underlying principle might be termed living for self alone. They do not care for real religion, but are occupied entirely with the things of time and sense. What they will eat today or what they will wear tomorrow is to them vastly more important than how they will stand before God in the future. Their effort is concerned with this life alone, and they live and work and play as though there were no such thing as eternity and no such person as God. They come to the end like the man who told himself he could retire from business because he had much goods laid up for many years and he could now afford to enjoy the fruits of his toil and eat, drink and be merry. But he had laid up all his goods on the earth; they were not taken from him, but he was taken from them, and it is no wonder the Lord says he was a fool. The class under consideration are not necessarily bad people, for usually they are tolerant of religion, as the people of Sodom did not mind having Lot in their midst. But the religion that Lot had was not very insistent. When it would threaten to interfere with business or with pleasure it must not be heard. It was time then to laugh it out of court as a sort of fable, and when it became personal Lot was to them as one who mocked.

Living for Self and God. The second picture is that of Lot, in whom the half-and-half Christian is easily seen. This man illustrates those who seem to have, as the underlying principle of life, the idea of living for self and for God too. They attempt to serve two masters, and, failing to serve either, come to the end with nothing to show for their labor. They trust their own vision and live by sight and not by faith. Lot looked on the well-watered plain and, as far as he could see, it was the very thing he ought to have, the very thing that was best for him. But, as God saw, it was the very thing he ought not to have, the thing that was worst for him. He hazarded everything he had or hoped to have—his family, his property—on what he could see with his own eyes, when he might have chosen what God could see. He trusted himself rather than God and the results were inevitable. He lost what God would have given him and he lost the enjoyment the men of Sodom had; for all the time he was there his righteous soul was vexed. He was neither out and out for self nor out and out for God. He had tried to live for God and self, he had tried to serve two masters and to get both the wealth of Sodom and the wealth of God. But he ended with awful disaster, losing his property, his testimony his family—all that he had.

Living for God. The last picture is that in which the "out-and-out" Christian is seen in Abraham. The underlying principle of his life seems to be that he had made up his mind to serve God alone. He was far from being a perfect man. He made many mistakes and even committed some sins. But underneath he was living for God. He had learned "thou shalt have no other God before me" and his life was governed by this principle. He recognized that he could serve only one master with any hope of success and he chose to have the Lord as that one Master. What he was and had and hoped to be belonged to that Master to do with as the Master desired. Where he was to be and how he was to be was in the Master's hand. He would not lean to his own understanding nor judge by the sight of his eyes nor walk by his own wisdom. He would gladly take the seeming second best from God, believing that whatever appearances might say, they could not tell the whole truth. The men of Sodom lived for self alone and lost themselves and all they had; Lot lived for self and God and lost all he had of peace or power or property; Abraham lived for God alone and, while he was not a perfect man, there was given to him the peace of God and power for God and possessions from God.

Pleasant Fields of Holy Writ

Save for my daily range Among the pleasant fields of Holy Writ. I might despair. —Tennyson.

The International Sunday-School Lesson. Motto for this Week: "The Bible is a common sense inspired."—R. Howells.

Second Quarter, Lesson VI. 1 Samuel 20, 32-42, May 9, 1915. FRIENDSHIP OF DAVID AND SAUL.

(The Story.) The king's son was fascinated with the shepherd boy's deed of prowess. There he stood, in the royal presence, a self-sufficient hero, his hand clutching the gory locks of his dripping trophy. He had slain the Gathite monster, and, single-handed, turned the tide of battle, but with modest composure he answered Saul's question as to his origin, freely admitting his humble parentage. His heroic and patriotic spirit was transfused with piety. He had done this deed as unto the Lord. He had adventured with fearful odds against him, but in the buoyancy of a faith that apprehended victory. He would avenge Jonathan's death, and then, if he would, he would go back to his little flock on the Judean steppes. Such modesty, piety, self-interest could not but arrest the attention of the great king, and unobtrusively, David's noble spirit bloomed like a fair lily on the reeking dunghill of Saul's sordid court and camp. Jonathan was struck with astonishment and admiration. He found his fellow. His own dauntless and devoted heart was melted. The ideal friendship which then sprang up was rooted in a common heroic faith. Both believed in Jehovah, the omnipotence of his government in Israel. The mutuality of their faith accounts not only for the origin of their friendship, but for its phenomenal strength. Jonathan's friendship was a revelation for David was severely tested. It seemed to be in hopeless collision with the spirit of filial piety. How could a father's friend be the son's chosen friend? When this loyalty seemed inimical to his personal interest. It required of him the surrender of his right to the throne. And this prince of Israel's royal house was not effeminate weakling, predisposed to evade an honor environed with dangers. Jonathan skillfully traced and resolutely kept within the tangled web of his father's apparently conflicting duties. He refused to aid in making away with his rival. He saw that his father's envy of David was groundless. He pleaded for him so well as to exempt Saul from the promise of safety for him. When the promise was broken, he warned David of danger. At the same time he gave his father indisputable evidences of his fidelity. He fought for him and died with him. Again, while Jonathan recognized his prospective right to the throne after the order of human law, and was conscious of his ability to retain, yet when the theoretical purpose that David should succeed Saul was evident, he bowed in the complete self-abnegation of one who, in a later period of Israel's history, said, "He must increase, but I must decrease." The murderous envy of Saul forms the ink agate on which the friendship of Jonathan and David stands out like a fair cameo in clear-cut and lovely outline. That jealousy was incited by the woman's passion—the folk song—to the returning victors, in which the meed of praise was given to the Bethlehemite stripling, David, the fathered king could not brook the supposed indignity. He saw in this incident the unfolding of the Divine purpose to supplant him. He murdered to nip it in the bud by the murder of David.

TRACHER'S LANTERN. Pythagoras' dictum, "Friendship, one soul in two bodies," is the classic counterpart to the expressive, sacred record that the soul of Jonathan was linked to the soul of David. Friendship is the best and the noblest of things. When based upon a common faith, and guided by the mutual purpose of obedience to God, it is the fragrant remnant of paradise regained, as well as a strong business conduct. Friendship is not so based and transfused has in it elements of positive danger. That "He of necessity" is a plot upon an otherwise fair record. It was born of unbelief. David got morbid over Saul's course toward him. He thought deceit justified under the circumstances. His heart was not wholly candid in the narrative, but the consequences show it unnecessary. The stars in their courses fought against Saul. He tried to ensnare David by marrying him to his daughter. But by the very creation of that relationship he made the accession of David the less inevitable. And Michal rescued her husband from her father's hand. This account is drawn to a close by a logically, Saul harbored a mean passion. This ideal friendship ripened in the storm. Washington remarked, "True friendship is a plant of slow growth, and must undergo and withstand the shocks of adversity before it is entitled to the appellation." It is impossible to serve an envious master. The man who will David, the better Saul hated him. But David's obedience was unto the Lord as well as unto the king. And the Lord failed not to reward him. The Fifth Psalm is a masterpiece of this trying epoch. It depicts the snares of the enemy and the deliverances of Jehovah. On the other hand, there was a point beyond which the dial duty of Jonathan could not be expected to go. When he heard his mother wily spoken of, and saw that the death of his friend was determined, and his father's hand lifted against himself, he was grieved and declined further participation in the banquet. Finally, David's course is true to nature. Young and healthy, life is dear to him. He is keenly aware of the peril. He feels that there is but a step between him and death. One who is the soul of courage in the open field grows timorous when he knows he is the subject of a plot. It is good for us as well as David's self that God trained him in the school of adversity. The laurel-crowned head must not be allowed to lift itself too high.

THE YOUNG PEOPLE'S DEVOTIONAL SERVICE. May 9, 1915. Revelation 3, 7-13. WHY AM I PROUD OF MY DENOMINATION? (Led by the Pastor.) The church is the diamond. The denominations are the facets into which its surface has been cut. The diamond is one. The facets are many. Each emits its own ray, but all are the rays of the diamond. Contentment between the denominations should be as impossible as between the several faces of the jewel. While this is true, members of the various religious bodies should know the history of the denomination to which they belong—the origin, progress and leaders, and more particularly, the distinctive doctrines or customs upon which it puts emphasis. This is possible without shadow of bigotry or sectarianism. Never was denominational harmony and co-operation more complete than now. Organic unity may never come, may not even be desirable, but federation is in good measure already achieved.

EXEMPTED PROPERTY MUST BE REPORTED

County Clerk Sends Out Blanks to Assessors.—Must Put Value on All Personal Property.

County Clerk H. W. Lee is sending out blanks to assessors of the county upon which they shall make reports to him on personal property and real estate which is exempt from taxation. Items of personal property shall be listed upon the blanks, one for each property owner, which shall give the valuation of the articles, the purpose for which it is used and the rent, if any, obtained from it. The blanks also have a place for a record of real estate which is exempt from taxation, so that the assessors' reports will give a complete list of all property in the assessment district, of which which is subject to taxation and that which is exempted.

ENG HOVELAND ARRESTED FOR PAROLE VIOLATION.

Eng Hoveland was ordered taken to the county jail for being drunk this morning for a violation of the commitment, getting intoxicated last night, while serving a six months sentence of the police court. Hoveland, but as he was serving time under the parole and supposed to be at work under the county jail authorities, they did not take him into charge. Last night, however, Hoveland went to sleep on River street from the effect of an over imbibing and was put in jail over night and brought into the county jail this morning. Jail authorities will take on the violation, is not known, for Turnkey Wogan refused to state if the diet cure would be applied.

John Ward of Orfordville, who is serving a six months sentence is also at the county jail for a violation of his parole. The police several days ago arrested Andrew Johnson, who is drunk and disorderly, who is serving a sentence under the state board of control. He was paroled out to a Green county farmer and it is said ran away from him. The man, Jostad, officer for the state board of control, is in the city to dispose of the several cases where violations are reported.

Yesterday afternoon Sam Huey was given thirty days when he pleaded guilty to being drunk and disorderly. Huey made a mistake in his residence and attempted to break into the home of two ladies, one feared a burglar was trying to enter the home. Huey was moved to tears when shown a new set of Wauwatosa photographs obtained by Judge Maxfield.

JUDGE MAXFIELD DISMISSES CASE AGAINST AUGUST BORK.

Judge H. L. Maxfield dismissed the case of the State vs. August Bork held on the charge of cruelty to animals this morning. Bork was arraigned a week ago on the charge and on his plea of guilty was sentenced to the county jail for six months. On the report of no further offense the case was adjourned. The charge of the warrant is the first of its kind ever in the municipal court.

SIR DOUGLAS HAIG WINS HIGH PRAISE FROM GENERAL FRENCH.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) London, May 7.—Sir Douglas Haig, who won high praise in Sir John French's despatches, was scarcely known in England at the beginning of the war, outside of the army. He first came into public notice at the battle of the Marston, where his conduct was described by his superior as "bold, skilful and decisive." At Ypres his reputation was further enhanced, and now his work at Neuve Chapelle has made him a national hero. Sir Douglas Haig began his practical military education with Sir John French. He was chief of staff to French, then colonel in the brilliant series of minor operations that prepared the way for Lord Roberts' advance at Colchester in South Africa. Besides his Boer War experience Sir Douglas has served on the staff in India and been director of military training at the war office. In the recent summer manoeuvres he has always commanded one of the armies. Sir Douglas is a Scot and a member of a well known family.

GERMAN NEWSPAPERS WISH GREAT BATTLE BE GIVEN RIGHT NAME

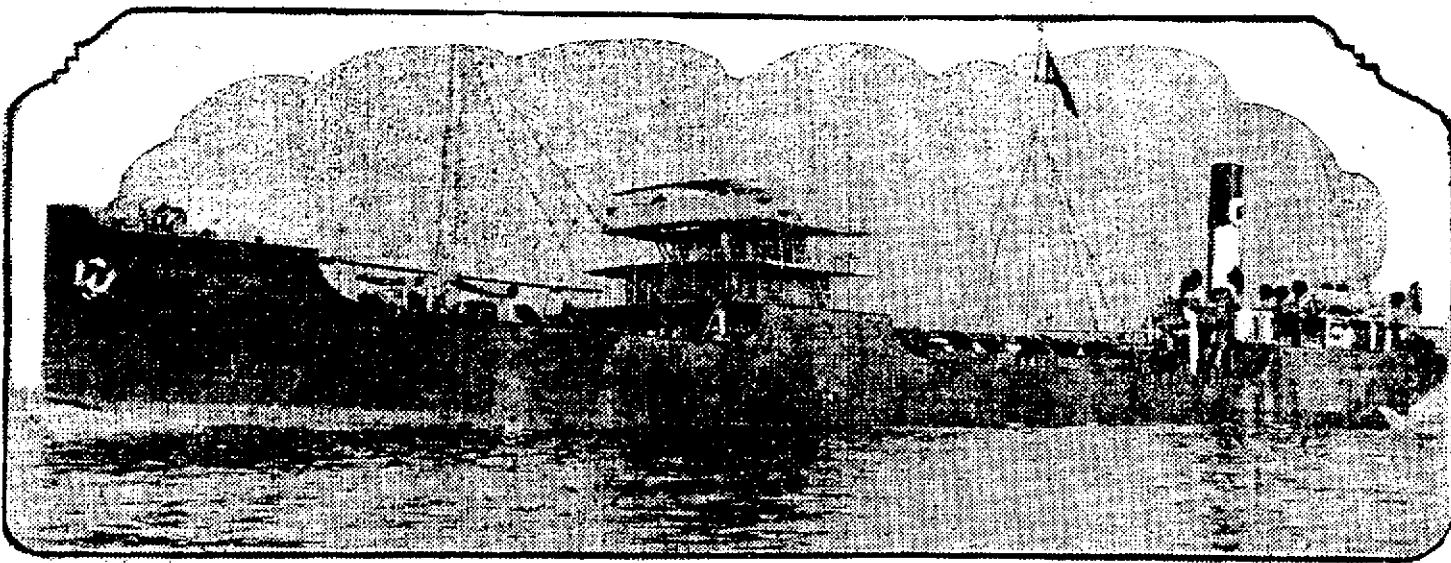

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Amsterdam, May 7.—The German newspapers have renewed their plea against the use of the word Waterloo as denoting the great battle of June 18, 1815. The proper name of the battle is Belle Alliance. At Waterloo, in the strict sense of the word, there was no fighting at all, and Marshal Blucher gave orders that the battle should be named after the farm of La Belle Alliance, near which the battle was really fought, and where the two victors, Wellington and Blucher, met after the work was done. But, according to the German writers, "Wellington did not like the name chosen by Blucher, fearing it might indicate in history that it was Blucher and not he who won the fight. Besides, it was his habit, followed in the Peninsula, to name a battle after the place where he spent the night before, and he declined to depart from his custom on this occasion."

FRECKLES

Don't Hide Them With a Veil; Remove Them With the Othine Prescription.

This prescription for the removal of freckles was written by a prominent physician and is usually so successful in removing freckles and giving a clear, beautiful complexion that it is sold by Badger Drug Co., or any druggist under guarantee to refund the money if it fails. Don't hide your freckles under a veil; get an ounce of othine and remove them. Even the first few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanishing entirely. Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength othine; it is this that is sold on the money-back guarantee.

WASHINGTON IS AROUSED BY TORPEDOING OF AMERICAN OIL TANKER GULFIGHT

The Gulfight.

Official Washington is deeply concerned over the torpedoing by a German submarine of the American oil tank steamer Gulfight. According to report she was torpedoed without giving the officers and crew a chance to take to the boats. The captain and two members of the crew were drowned. The Gulfight left Port Arthur, Texas, April 10, for Rouen, France, with 50,000 barrels of gasoline.

POSTER DESIGNS SHOWN BY SUFFRAGETTES FOR THEIR VOTE CAMPAIGN.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

New York, May 7.—At the Society Beaux Arts Architects today the exhibition of the poster designs submitted to the Empire State Campaign Committee opens today. These exhibits were submitted by poster artists and pupils in many cities, some as far north as Portland, Maine and not a few from cities and towns as far south as Washington, D. C.

The one selected by the Art Committee, designed by Reuben R. Purcell, 21 Quincy street, Brooklyn, will be used for advertising purposes in the campaign this fall and is considered by the suffrage leaders the most persuasive appeal yet devised to induce the men voters to give them the right to vote.

A cash prize of fifty dollars was awarded Mr. Purcell and Miss Nathalie Matson, 72 Brooklyn avenue, Brooklyn and Miss Adelaide Everson, 1530 Amsterdam avenue, New York were each given $10 prizes. The posters are all in suffrage yellow, and some are decorated with black and white reading matter.

BILL FOR REMOVING PRESIDENT FROM THE BOARD IS POSTPONED

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., May 7.—The Bennett bill removing the president of the university from the board of regents, which was on for hearing yesterday afternoon, was put over until some later day when it will again be bulletined. This action was taken to await a determination of the legislature's will on the central board of education bill, which contains a provision to the same effect. Senator Albers remarked that if the central board bill fails, the Bennett bill ought to pass.

Judge C. B. Rogers of Fort Atkinson was present to argue against the bill but the postponement caused him to delay his expression of views. He informed the senate education committee that Mrs. G. A. Buckstaff of Oshkosh, a member of the board of regents, intended to speak on the bill but was only a few minutes before engaged in conversation with former President Taft and so had delayed coming. Dean E. A. Birge had also intended to speak against the bill.

Don't Keep It Up. Although it be a fact that to err is human that should not serve as an excuse for a continuous performance of mistakes.

DAIRY

EXCELLENT RATION FOR COW

If Farmers Would Depend More on Silage and Less on Pasture Herds Could Be Doubled.

A good ration for cows giving milk is silage twice a day, corn fodder once a day and the bean forage they will clean up, with about one pound grain or concentrate to every three pounds milk the cow gives. If the beans were pulled before becoming too ripe and secured without much rain falling on them, the forage makes good feed. Roots are valuable to increase the flow of milk.

If we would depend more on silage and less on pasture, our dairy herds might easily be doubled and the farm enriched accordingly. Many farmers have been slow to awaken to the fact that dairying brings excellent returns. Many unprofitable crops are still raised where the land might better be growing feed for live stock.

Permanent pasture is a waste unless the land cannot be plowed. Every acre should be made to raise feed for stock to the limit of its capacity, and this should be fed right on the farm, returning the fertility to the soil.

PAIL OF GREAT IMPORTANCE

Where Clean Milk Is Produced Small-Top Receptacle Is Necessary to Exclude Bacteria.

The United States department of agriculture has this to say about milking:

"In modern dairies where clean milk is produced the small-top milk pail is a necessity, as such a pail presents only a small opening into which dust and dirt may fall from the air or from the cow's body. It has been found by experience that the use of the small-top pail greatly reduces the number of bacteria in milk from average dairies. Many types of milk pails are for sale, but any tinner can convert an ordinary pail into a small-top pail by the addition of a hood, as shown herewith.

Milkmen should be allowed to milk only with dry hands. The practice of wetting the hands with milk is a filthy habit and is liable to cause the cow's teats to chap in the winter time. Milking should be done quickly and thoroughly, with no violent jerking of the teats. After each cow is milked the pail of milk should be removed immediately to the milk house.

The milkster should remember always that he is handling a human food which is very easily contaminated. Soap, clean water and towels must be readily accessible. The hands should be washed after milking each cow.

COTTONSEED MEAL FOR COWS

No Harmful Effects If Fed in Moderate Amounts Along With Variety of Other Foods.

(By E. G. WOODWARD, Nebraska Experiment Station.)

A Nebraska subscriber writes: "Is the feeding of cottonseed meal harmful to dairy cows if fed right along?" If cottonseed meal is fed in moderate amounts along with a variety of other feeds, there are no harmful effects.

Ordinarily a cow should not be fed more than two pounds daily of cottonseed meal. As a usual thing it will not take this amount to properly balance a ration made up of common dairy feeds.

At present prices cottonseed meal is a very cheap source of protein and should undoubtedly be used much more extensively by Nebraska dairymen than it now is.

MUD HOLES IN COW PASTURE

Clean Shore Is Blessing to Fly-Pest-tered Animals—Many Annoyances Are Avoided.

A cow pasture mud hole is a veritable nuisance. To get away from the flies the cows will wade in the mud until their legs and even their udders become completely plastered. Then added to the annoyance of stamping and kicking at flies at milking time we have the added annoyance of being obliged to milk cows with chapped teats.

A clean lake shore or river or brook in the pasture is a blessing indeed to the fly-pest-tered cows, but the mud hole should either be drained or fenced out of the pasture. Poul in the foot with cattle, and grease heel with horses, is the result of tramping back and forth from mud holes to dusty grounds.

TUITION FEE BILL IS ENGROSSED IN ASSEMBLY FIGHT

Hambrecht Measure to Raise University Fee to Non-Residents Fifty Dollars Causes Legislative Contest.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., May 7.—After one of the hardest legislative contests of the session the assembly late yesterday afternoon sent to engrossment the Hambrecht bill increasing the non-resident tuition fee at the university from $100 to $150. The only record vote came on the subject of indefinite postponement, when by a vote of 42 to 29 the assembly refused to kill the bill. The vote was as follows:

Indefinitely postpone the bill: Assemblymen Ballard, Dickie, Dobie, Engstrom, Falk, Frederick, Freese, Herzer, Kent, Kuntzacker, McGowan, Melvin, Meisner, Minkler, Monahan, Neumeister, Krc, Reniz, Schindler, Schroeder, Smith, Spoor, Vint, Waldron, Weber and Zinn—29. Against indefinitely postponing the bill: Assemblymen Aronson, Berninger, Bradley, Egan, Caldwell, Cronin, Crosby, Dixon, Donnelly, Edwards, Ellingson, Hager, Hambrecht, Carl Hanson, Julius Hanson, Harrington, Hart, Heathcote, Helm, Hesse, Johnson, J. B. Jensen, Kay, Pieper, Killa, Kubasta, Kubastel, Long, Morgan, Murphy, Nelson, O'Brien, Piegler, Poole, Prosser, Van Gorden, Wittich, Wells, Winegar and Speaker Whitell—42.

Paired in favor of the bill: Aulenbacher, Krotlow, E. A. Everett, Gampor, Moran, Franzen, Budlong, Fairclough, against the bill: Assemblymen Johnson, Greenwald, Orsine, Grell, Heben, Duffe and Nordman.

Assemblyman Hambrecht made the principal argument in favor of the bill and from the platform platformed the republican and democratic parties declaring in favor of the increase in the tuition fee. He said that it was the duty of the members to redeem their party platform pledges.

In opposition to the bill in floor speeches were Assemblymen Orsine and Mortensen. The latter claimed that Wisconsin had advanced the tuition fee for non-residents from $30 to $50; from $50 to $70; from $70 to $100 and now an attempt is being made to raise it to $150. He pointed out that all other states have lower non-resident fees and said if the students from Wisconsin to other states had to pay an equal reciprocal fee, the state would be out many thousands of dollars. After the bill was indefinitely postponed the assembly adjourned until 9 o'clock this morning.

REFORM IN BRITISH WAR OFFICES SOUGHT BY TEMPORARY CLERKS

London, May 7.—Chaffing at war office methods, the war office temporary clerks, who consist largely of former business and professional men, have called a meeting to discuss their grievances and to bring about reforms.

These men in most cases lost responsible positions through reverses brought on by the war. But all of the 500 now employed by Lord Kitchener are kept on mechanical duties at a uniform wage of 3 shillings sixpence ($7.50) a week addressing envelopes and copying casualty lists. A chief cashier to a big electrical company, a chartered accountant, and others of high positions before the war, are in the war office temporary force.

Promotion of trained temporary men to responsible positions and a proper recognition of business ability is to be asked of the Government.

BILL FOR DECREASING NUMBER OF MEMBERS ON SCHOOL BOARD HEARD

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., May 7.—Saying that school boards in cities having commission government are too large, Senator Tomkins of Ashland urged the senate committee on education and public welfare yesterday afternoon to pass his bill to constitute the board of seven members. The bill is intended for third class commission cities. Of the seven members, six are to be appointed by the mayor and confirmed by the council, and one is to be a councilman elected by the council. The bill makes it optional for cities to adopt this plan for school boards.

Mother's Day

May 9th, 1915

On May ninth—MOTHER'S DAY—the Nation rejoices as one in honoring MOTHER. It chooses flowers as the fairest and dearest expression of love.

JUST as the Mothers of long ago watched their old-fashioned posies grow and blossom, so do our Mothers today find measureless joy in flowers.

A favorite plant or a charming floral basket will bring a glow of happiness to Mother's face and warm her heart with precious memories and gratitude. Gladly, too, does the Mother with her little ones about her welcome such a gift.

Flowers by telegraph to Mother at the Old Home Place, no matter where or when.
